ITALY'S LARGEST AIRBASE AT FOGGIA AND TEN SATELLITE FIELDS STAGGER UNDER BOLD AMERICAN AIRPLANE RAID

Swift One-Two-Three Punch is Landed — Swarms of Lightnings Launch Attack, Screaming Over Target at Less Than 100 Feet — Wipe Out Many Parked Aircraft—Hundreds of Ground Crew Staff Killed.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 26.—(INS)—Italy's largest airbase at Foggia, 80 miles northeast of Naples, with its ten satellite fields, staggered today under a swift one-two-three punch landed by one of the largest and boldest of all-American warplane raids of the war.

Swarms of Lightnings launched the attack at 9 a. m., when they screamed over the target at less than 100 feet, caught the ground organization by surprise, wiped out numerous parked aircraft and killed a few hundred ground crew members.

The first waves of Lightnings, 15 minutes apart, constituted the largest number of these planes yet sent out from North Africa on a strafing mission.

The turmoil and confusion on the ground prevented the enemy from getting any fighters into the air when a force of Liberators of the Ninth United States Air Force from the Middle East came roaring in and dropped a hail of bombs from 20,000 feet.

The Liberators blew apart the Foggia railway yards, warehouses and gun positions and poured tons of explosives on landing grounds. Some dogfights ensued and seven enemy fighters were shot down out of a force of between ten and fifteen.

WAR WRITER FINDS WORLD VERY SMALL

He Meets Just About The Same Men Wherever He Goes

RELATES EXPERIENCES

(This is the seventh in a series of stories by Graham Hovey, who titles them "Left-overs from a War Reporter's Notebook.")

By Graham Hovey

N. S. Staff Correspondent
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 26 (Delayed)—(INS)—Someday someone is going to cite the man who first made the crack about it being a small world as a master of understatement.

It's a very small world, indeed, and it is getting smaller at a rapid pace. A year overseas should have proven that to me beyond all doubt, but actually it took a round trip flight between North Africa and the United States to provide the clincher. The return trip to this headquarters was especially productive of examples.

While waiting around at an air base in Brazil for a ride across the Atlantic, I walked squarely into George Mudrovich of Keewatin, Minn., who had been radio operator on the converted Liberator bomber which had brought me over the ocean to Brazil on my trip home six weeks earlier.

"I've been on a lot of different runs since I last saw you," said George. "Don't know where I'll be going next, but it might be that I'll be part of the crew that takes you back to Africa tomorrow."

When I boarded the plane the following day I found that the radio operator was—George Mudrovich!

At an air base on a tiny island in the South Atlantic I ate breakfast with Lieut. David H. Jaffe, an Air Corps navigator from 4812 Kimbark avenue, Chicago. Dave and I had traveled all the way from Brazil to Miami, Fla., in the same plane back in May.

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan
(I. N. S. Staff Writer)
Well, the OWI spent $415 to have a booklet reprinted because the wrong alphabetical agency got top billing on the cover.

These alphabetical agencies are more temperamental than a Hollywood producer's cousin over who gets the screen credits.

They aren't half as much concerned with the performance they give as with the credit they get on the cover of the book.

Or at least that's the impression you get out of the explanation for the $415 expenditure.

One of the OWI boys said he was afraid "there would be a let down among the field people if they got the book with the wrong imprint on the cover."

The explanation doesn't kill us. We'd rather hear about field people being let out than let down.

There isn't a square inch of field left that isn't crowded with Federal field people. They're not only in our hair—they're in our crops.

Thought for the day: Tax statement due Sept. 15.

SURGICAL DRESSING BOARDS A GREAT AID

Task of Making Red Cross Sponges A Much Easier One

SEEK MORE WORKERS

Thrilled with the surgical dressing boards which they received last week, women who gathered at the community house on Dorrance street yesterday and Tuesday found the making of surgical dressings an easier and quicker task.

Three sizes of sponges are made on the three sizes of boards provided for Red Cross workers here—those for the 2x2 inch, the 4x4 inch, and the 4x8 inch sponges.

"It's practically child's play now, compared to when we made them entirely by means of hand," commented one worker.

So great is the need, with many more sponges asked from the local group, that more workers are sought. Mrs. Franklin Wallin, who is head of the surgical dressing department locally, states that with the improved facilities through use of the boards, women of Bristol area should find the task a pleasant one indeed, and all available assistance on Tuesdays and Wednesdays at the Community House is desired.

Not as much skill is required on the part of the operator of the board as when the hands were aided merely by a ruler or a small piece of card-board lined off with pencil.

On Tuesday approximately 700 sponges were made—being of the 2x2 and 4x4 sizes. This is the largest number made in one day's period by the local group.

An appeal for more workers is made. The need is great, and with more assistants and the boards which make the task easier, it is certain that the number of compresses and sponges shipped monthly from Bristol will mount.

Emergency Over, Says Borough Engineer Roberts

In the opinion of Borough Engineer John S. Roberts, Jr., "the emergency seems to have passed," in the oil situation. "It is now permissible to operate lawn sprinklers for necessary sprinkling," said Mr. Roberts, today.

At the time that oil from a leak in the "Big Inch" pipe line at New Hope covered the Delaware River, the oil floated on the surface of the water as far as Morrisville and it was thought that perhaps the water supply here might be affected. Water consumers were asked to draw a two-day supply of drinking water and to cease the use of lawn sprinklers, so as not to unnecessarily use the water which was in storage and might be needed for more necessary purposes.

Embarrassing Moments

(By "The Stroller")

A certain resident of Bristol and one connected with the police department was seen Sunday morning endeavoring to guide a stranger to the intersection of Wood and Walnut streets.

First the stranger who was driving the car attempted to turn into Walnut street and "buck" traffic on that thoroughfare. Lifting a warning hand the Bristol resident told the driver to proceed to Mulberry street and then to turn left off of Pond street.

Reaching the intersection of Mulberry and Cedar streets the driver suddenly turned into Cedar street, again "bucking" traffic, and this was done before the Bristolian could check him. So there was a situation in which one connected with the police department was guiding a stranger so that he was proceeding the wrong way on a one-way street.

Disgusted with himself the guide made the best of the circumstances and sat there in the car with rather a guilty smile upon his face, hoping that no one would notice him.

11 MOTORISTS ARE KILLED IN COUNTY, SIX MONTHS PERIOD

Accidents Fatal to Pedestrians, Same Period, Total Four

563 IN THE STATE

Reduction For Penna. For Same Period In 1942 Is 361

The number of persons killed by motor vehicles on the streets and highways in Pennsylvania for the month of June 1943 as reported to the Bureau of Highway Safety, is the lowest recorded for any month since 1928. The previous smallest number was 75 and is recorded for the month of February 1929. As a matter of record, only one other month during the past 14 years, June, 1938, was there a monthly total under 100 and during this month 98 persons lost their lives in motor vehicle traffic accidents. It may be of interest also to know that these two months were the only times when the monthly total was less than 119—years 1929 to 1942 inclusive. In 1943 the number of persons killed by month, January to June are: 89, 101, 119, 90, 95 and 69.

Many of the 69 persons who were killed during the month of June as in previous months, doubtless would be living today if motorists, pedestrians and cyclists had realized, recognized and practiced their responsibility in motor vehicle traffic. This conclusion is drawn from the analysis of the reports received which indicates that many accidents are due to: Too much haste, speeds too fast for conditions, lack of vigilance and concentration on driving, reckless driving, and careless walking and cycling.

For the past six months period, January to June 1943, 563 persons were killed in motor vehicle traffic accidents which is a reduction of 361 or 39.1 per cent over 1942, and 389 or 49.9 per cent over 1941, and 346 or 38.1 per cent over the average for the previous 14 years.

In Bucks County during the first six months of 1943 there were 11 motorists killed, three less than in the first six months of 1942. The accidents were in rural areas.

Such a donation is much more than a personal contribution to the war effort. It is an invaluable gift to the men in our fighting forces.

Wheat Acreage Is Put at 20,700 Acres

A wheat acreage goal of 20,700 acres for 1944 was announced by Russell K. Edwards, chairman of the Bucks County AAA Committee.

In commenting on this goal, Mr. Edwards stated that no farm goals will be established by the County AAA Committee and that farmers are now urged to plant all the available acreage to wheat that is not needed to grow other essential food and feed crops.

There will be no wheat acreage restriction or wheat payments in 1944, he said. The only factor of control will be the farmers' judgment as to the wheat acreage that will best fit his crop rotation, livestock operations, available labor and farming equipment. It is believed by the County Committee, Mr. Edwards concluded, that 20,700 acres of wheat can be grown in Bucks county without sacrificing acreage needed to grow other essential war crops in 1944 and that a large portion of the increased wheat acreage may be achieved by farmers arranging to plant crop land that is now idle in the communities.

THREE SCHOOLS IN COUNTY TO CLOSE; LACK OF TEACHERS

Boards Find It Easier To Transfer Pupils Than To Find Teachers

VACANCIES EXIST

Women Physical Training Teachers To Instruct Boys As Well

Three rural one-room schools have just been closed by two school boards who found it easier to close the schools than to secure new teachers. Declining enrollments in both districts made it possible to assign the pupils to nearby rural schools.

Plumstead Township, according to George Gayman, secretary of the School Board, officially closed Smith's Corner and River Hill schools. Plumstead did have four vacancies, now only two remain to be filled.

Tinicum Township closed the Rocky Ridge school. Quintus Lerch, secretary of the School Board, reported that two more vacancies remain to be filled.

Springfield, Milford, and Bedminster have considered the advisability of closing one or more rural schools, but to date have not been able to take care of the pupils in other schools.

According to Samuel Detweiler, secretary of the Bedminster Township School Board, two vacancies remain. John Nice, secretary of Richland Township School Board, reported one position remaining to be filled. Mrs. Helen Wasser, secretary of New Britain Township Board, announced that the position of a teacher in grades 5, 6, 7 and 8 is still vacant. Howard Kooker, secretary of the New Hope-Solebury Township Joint School Board, reported that Miss Daddow, teacher of French and Latin has resigned.

WAR STATISTICS

There is a tendency to measure war results more and more in statistics to show the basic trends of the conflict. Thus a technical editor of the magazine Aeroplane, published in London, took his pencil in hand to show that an 800-plane bomber raid at night by the British causes damage equivalent to the work of 77,000 Germans for one month. The raid costs the work of only 18,500 Allied men and women for a similar period. This accounting indicates that the manpower of the Allies is much more effective than that of the Axis.

Undoubtedly, weapons of the superiority of those at the command of the Allies spread destruction at a rapid rate, and the Axis is more and more on the debit side of the sheet. But whether the situation can be reduced accurately to statistics is a question. For example, there is the influence of air attack on enemy morale. Men and women working in fear can not accomplish as much as those who are protected.

Then, too, there are the American daylight raids which have reached a high point of accuracy. They do not employ as many bombers as the British but they hit essential targets and knock them out. It is impossible to estimate the extent of the damage caused by this precision bombing in statistical terms, but it, too, is creating consternation and havoc throughout the Reich.

READY TO GO
Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is a soldier who has done big deeds without succumbing to the temptation to indulge in big talk. There is good and sufficient reason, accordingly, to accept as accurate the amazing figures which he gives for enemy casualties as well as Allied in Sicily—more than 167,000 Axis casualties up to August 10, as against Allied casualties of 25,000.

This ratio of nearly seven to one can be accounted for, in part, by the fact that most of the Axis casualties are prisoners, but General Eisenhower estimates Axis dead and wounded at 32,000, a figure substantially in excess of total Allied casualties.

After pointing out that "Allied armies have within the last few months inflicted severe defeats on the so-called 'invincible' German army, in each case at very small cost to themselves," the Allied commander-in-chief went on to say:

"Our troops have done everything the best troops in the world could have done. As an American I take just as much pride in the British Eighth Army as any Briton. Now we've brought up an American Army that is a worthy partner of the Eighth Army."

General Eisenhower added that his deputy commander, Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, in charge of all land operations, now has a "powerful one-two punch."

"Alexander," he said, "can swing two armies as he sees fit. Both armies are ready to go any minute. We can count on them with complete confidence. That 'ready to go any minute' gives us something more than a mere slogan."

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)
Pastor
Bristol Presbyterian Church

Father, Thou forgivest us, so far as we are truly penitent. May we likewise forgive all who sin against us; all who sin against society; all who sin against Thee; even as Thou forgivest us and them. May we count no sin too heinous to pardon; no man too hardened to reclaim; no woman too fallen to uplift. When we forgive the penitent, help us to stand by him against a hard and unforgiving world. Thus may we make our forgiveness a reality in the world, and open the door of genuine social restoration to those who have gone astray. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

"Buckskin Frontier" hits the jackpot. The Harry Sherman railroad epic, which opens today at the Grand Theatre, is loaded with all the ingredients important to an A-1 western adventure film; this is the first western to feed plenty of punchy action and gun-play, a solid, exciting plot and a notable cast of such screen stalwarts as Richard Dix, Jane Wyatt, Albert Dekker and Max Baer to the public, especially fans of outdoor pictures, "Buckskin Frontier" has the combination that makes you sit on the edge of your seat, cheering the hero and hissing the villain.

Its story is centered around the fight of Stephen Bent (Richard Dix) to bring the railroad to the west and to develop the prairie land into modern agricultural country.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

"UNCHALLENGED VALUE"—that is the proud boast of the "Gold Cross" (changed from "Red Cross" by the President's request) Shoe manufacturers.

I am inclined to agree with them. No one could look at the new fall exhibit of "Gold Cross" Shoes and disagree. All models are reinforced, some more, some less, but by no means known as corrective shoes. Five very highly styled "Gold Cross" pumps have just made their debut—including The Carlton, Dressmaker, La Comga, Marcel, Santo. The new "ties" are also the essence of grace. Then there are the famous Cobble lasts in the sports and walking "Gold Cross" models. There's simply nothing to beat a "Gold Cross" Cobble for swank comfort and added support. $6.95—a grand price. Snellenburg Shoe Dept., 1st fl.

CRICKET! Imagine real, honest-to-goodness galvanized garbage cans to be bought in this day of scrap collecting! Marvelous sizes, too, 9 gals. and 20 gals., the big ones with side handles and the smaller ones with hook, bucket-like handles. Both sizes have lids. If my garbage didn't mostly fit into a stew-pan I'd surely go in for one of these. My next best satisfaction is to persuade you to buy one. Snellenburgs, Housewares Dept., 3rd fl.

Why, I almost forgot to tell you the wonderful prices—$1.19 and $2.

ARE YOU NEAT or disorderly, and just can't help it? Either way, you'll appreciate the brand new "Sectionettes" to be had in the Snellenburg Notion Department. With them you can divide any bureau drawer into just the right spaces for keeping things separate. The sets cost 29c each. They consist of very heavy card strips which are held together similar to the sections in an egg crate. Move the strips close or far, depending upon the size spaces you want. I'm buying sets for disorderly friends! (1st fl.)

"KEEP DRI" is one of the most effective of the new damp-proof products. Snellenburgs are sponsoring it and patrons are praising it. "Keep Dri" chemical comes in sturdy containers and it absorbs several times its weight in water. Under normal conditions it serves about thirty days. The closet size costs 49c and the basement size $1.69. "Keep Dri" prevents mildew, rust, mold, decay, and colds! Try it! Garden Corner, 1st fl.

"CONANT BALL"—If you like modern furniture at its best, you will be quite crazy—as am I—about the "Conant Ball" version. These fine furniture makers place their product with Snellenburgs exclusively, and the shop is having its seasonal clearance! Consequently, prices are what might be called "yummy." Each and every piece of "Conant Ball" is made of hard rock maple. In the "Conant Ball" celebrated Gloucester finish. The clearance begins this August 26th and will continue as long as there are pieces to display. Shown are bedroom, dining room and living room furniture. Included are tables, chairs, desks, beds, dresser bases, etc. If you are not acquainted with the Snellenburg Furniture Department, you have a treat coming. Personally I haven't found anywhere, quite such good values nor so wide a variety at this time. Take an elevator to the fifth floor and wander about at your interested leisure!

PAJAMAS MEN LIKE are the "Varsity" type now having a fall showing in the Men's Furnishing Department on the first floor of the Snellenburg Store. The fabrics are smooth and strong, and the subtly blended stripes come in good variety. Tailored in the popular coat model and the middle and tern. Blues, browns, tans, wines, greens. Good. Only $2.95. Other pajamas, $2.45 to $6.95.

"DRIPS" are healthful. What kind? The coffee kind. I wouldn't know about the others, or would I? But, seriously, some folks do say dripped coffee is less hard on the nervous system than the boiled brew. I just bought me a "drip" for a mere $1.49. Holds 6 cups! An even larger one holds 8 cups, and costs but $1.59. Simple and attractive, two crystal sections and black handle. Flame proof. Can be taken to table. Snellenburgs, Housewares Dept., 3rd fl.

"PEEL ME!" raincoats are knocking the younger set dry! And no wonder. They are the snappiest things. Martie, a fashion friend of mine, says the girls are buying 'em like cokes! The price is good, only $6.95. Made along the new box lines, these water-proof garments are fashioned of the cotton gabardine, in natural, red, blue, black and rose. Don't balk at the light colors for "Peel Me!" are stain proof! Just right for school. Sizes 7 to 14. Girls' Dept., Snellenburgs, 2nd fl.

"CONANT BALL"—If you like modern furniture at its best, you will be quite crazy—as am I—about the "Conant Ball" version. These fine furniture makers place their product with Snellenburgs exclusively, and the shop is having its seasonal clearance! Consequently, prices are what might be called "yummy." Each and every piece of "Conant Ball" is made of hard rock maple. In the "Conant Ball" celebrated Gloucester finish. The clearance begins this August 26th and will continue as long as there are pieces to display. Shown are bedroom, dining room and living room furniture. Included are tables, chairs, desks, beds, dresser bases, etc. If you are not acquainted with the Snellenburg Furniture Department, you have a treat coming. Personally I haven't found anywhere, quite such good values nor so wide a variety at this time. Take an elevator to the fifth floor and wander about at your interested leisure!

LAST SCHEDULED LEAGUE GAME TO BE PLAYED TONIGHT

Diamond Nine to Meet The Voltz-Texaco Team On Maple Beach Diamond

PROTEST A GAME

Battle Between Hunter and Rohm & Haas Goes Only 4 Innings

BRISTOL SUBURBAN LEAGUE
Schedule for Tonight
DIAMOND AND VOLTZ-TEXACO
(Maple Beach field)

The final scheduled game of the Bristol Suburban League will be played this evening on the Maple Beach diamond as the Diamond nine meets Voltz-Texaco.

Last evening's game between Rohm & Haas and the Hunter team only went four innings but was protested by the Rohm and Haas management. Hunter had difficulty in securing nine men for the contest and it was after seven o'clock when the ninth man showed up.

Rohm and Haas' protest is to the fact that if the ninth player had showed up sooner, the five innings could have been played and the game declared legal. If the game is declared illegal and Voltz-Texaco wins this evening then the Voltz-Texaco nine will be the second half champions as the regular season ends tonight and no games with the exception of a tie-off can be played.

In the four innings played last evening, Rohm and Haas had an 8-2 lead on the munition workers.

Butterflies, Moths Interest Scientists

der dots and having an extra hind wing black vein—but in general hard to be distinguished. Even the birds get confused—leaving the viceroys alone as they do the monarch, although in truth the viceroys has a very fine taste which the birds would enjoy could they make sure it were not a bitter monarch.

Miss Bewley further talked of moths—mentioning a few of the best known—as the Cecropia, with its soft rich grays and browns; the exquisite green-blue Luna; the Imperial, with its canary yellow; the Catocala Underwing, with its pink flash in the orchard; and the Humming Bird Clear Wing.

The paper was later supplemented by a study of several cases of mounted specimens loaned by Dr. Jesse Packer, of Newtown. Many of the specimens had been found by Dr. Packer in this vicinity, others in more mountainous sections, as the Poconos, Mt. Alto, and the Catskills. Several had been gotten by him in France. Others of tropical regions had been purchased for his collection. In this latter group were some of the exquisite blues often seen in jewelry and trays.

The second part of the program turned to the subject of mushrooms. Wendell F. Oliver, of Arborea Arbustus Gardens, Morrisville, displayed over 50 mushroom molds made from plastic moulage, as well as 20 sheets bearing clear cuts of all types of such fungi. He brought out the fact that mushrooms growing on decayed and dying trees are beneficial to a forest, rendering the material for future use in woodland growths. As butterflies prefer certain plants, so mushrooms have a natural preference for certain trees for hosts—pines, spruces, birches, poplars, oaks being among the popular varieties. Red squirrels, snails, ants, deer and cattle eat various mushrooms as well as man.

It is not alone the so-called meadow mushroom (agaricus campestris) that is edible. In fact, there are some 1,000 edible types, but the speaker stated that not all edible were eatable as often the taste was not pleasing. He mentioned matured puff balls, ink-caps, and beefsteak as very good, as well as some of the morels and corals, neither of which bear the well-known cap of a mushroom or toadstool. "Strange it seems that the white Death Angel Amanita phalloides should be so very poisonous, while the orange red Caesar's Amanita is considered good. The underside of a mushroom's cap sends out, when ripe, a dust which is called spores. White spores are not to be eaten. The life of a mushroom is short—but the mycelium or spawn threads in the ground persist. The areas where mushrooms suddenly in late summer appear are often called fairy rings and will increase in size year after year. There is a kind of mushroom also called Fairy ring. It is a marasimus—called by some Champignon. It is one-half the size of the meadow mushroom and can be strung and kept through the winter—as its leathery conditions changes as soon as it is moistened—which is unlike most such fungus which must be eaten very fresh."

The moulds on exhibition were of many shapes and of many colors—fit subjects for the palate of a diner as well as the palette of a painter.

After this interesting presentation, a tour of many of the plantings in the meeting house grounds was made. Among the shrubs of particular interest were the Cork Bark Anonymus, starting with its magenta fall color, the Sibboldi Viburnum with its exquisite red stems and berries, the Abelia with beautiful flower and glossy leaf, a Varnish tree with its interesting pods and the Calliopsis soon to show its lavender berries.

A box supper concluded the afternoon's proceedings. The next meeting will be held in Newtown school auditorium, September 18th, at 2:30, when the fauna and flora of Australia will be shown in colored slides. The president of the Delaware Valley Naturalists' Union, Miss Lydia Prickett Borden, will be the speaker.

I was returning to Africa, but Jaffe was enroute to the States. He navigates on all types of aircraft for the Air Transport Command and had just come from China.

No matter where I go I invariably run into Capt. Jack Sheffler of Glen Ridge, N. J. When I was hospitalized on the Gold Coast for an emergency appendectomy during the holiday season of 1942-43, I celebrated Christmas and New Year's Eve in mild fashion with Jack Sheffler, a fellow patient.

When I returned to Africa in May after covering the Tunisian campaign for INS, I was walking along a street in Miami, Fla., two hours after my arrival and Jack yelled at me from an Army truck. He had been home on leave and was ready to start back to Africa on a new assignment for the Army air force.

When I walked into an officers' mess hall in French Senegal on my way back to this base a few days ago just guess whom I practically ran over—that's right, Jack Sheffler.

At that same base, I was relaxing under a cooling shower bath after my Atlantic flight when I walked Edgar T. Rouzeau, of New York, correspondent for the Pittsburgh Courier, largest of the American Negro newspapers. Eddie, first representative of the American Negro press to be accredited as a war correspondent, had been a fellow passenger of mine on a troopship carrying a task force of Negro soldiers to the tiny West African republic of Liberia in June of 1942.

Together, Eddie and I had "sweated out" an assignment which was a "dead end" from a news standpoint for six long months in West Africa while the Allied invasion of North Africa was being planned.

Now Eddie, like myself, was headed for the North African theatre, and was looking forward especially to writing dispatches about the Negro fighter squadron now in action with the Northwest African air force.

When I climbed on the plane for the flight from Senegal to French Morocco, Arthur Alberts, of New York, an OWI field representative, grinned at me from a "bucket" seat across the aisle. I had last seen him on the Gold Coast last December. He, too, was bound for Allied Force Headquarters here.

And when our plane was forced down for the night at a base in the Sahara desert, Lieut. Dean Rogers greeted me as I alighted. Dean is a native of Davenport, Ia., where my wife works in the public library, and he had been back there on leave since I had last seen him in the British colony of Sierra Leone nearly a year ago.

Yes, it's not only true to say it's a small world. It's an understatement, as well. I know it full well, now, and it wouldn't surprise me in the least if Jack Sheffler walked into the room while I'm putting the finishing touches on this dispatch!

ford School Board, indicated that two rural vacancies had just been filled.

According to W. E. Smith, secretary of the Upper Makefield Board, the position at the rural school at Dooling will soon be filled.

Mrs. Catharine Beck, of Doylestown, formerly a teacher at Edison, has accepted a position at Ivyland, Mrs. Eileen Jamison, secretary of the Board, announced.

Miss Kathryn Nash, Pipersville, will replace Doris M. Shelly at Revere.

Mrs. Hannah B. Hampton, who taught at Erwinna last year, will teach in Buckingham Township this fall.

In addition to those listed 12 other vacancies are yet to be filled. Members of the county staff have been busy travelling over the county to nearby teacher training institutions and even to Harrisburg, to seek applicants—Bucks as well as in nearby counties.

A new unusual wartime condition faces high school students for the first time when women physical training teachers in some high schools will also have charge of all boys in physical education and health. Falls Township and New Hope-Solebury High Schools have already planned such a program. Richboro and several other high schools may have to follow that plan later on. Male physical training teachers cannot be deferred and are being inducted into the armed forces and as a result no physical training applicants can be found. The largest demand still, however, is for teachers of industrial arts with men physical training teachers remaining second.

Help Win The War; Donate Your Blood

For the human blood that is necessary to save lives cannot, like other medical supplies, be bought by the government. It must be donated by people who want to be "participating" patriots.

These are to be distinguished from the "paper" patriots. The latter avidly read all the latest details of the war, forget the hardship and heartache behind even the most optimistic headlines, and do nothing to help the brave men who make the good news possible.

Every victorious engagement means wounded to be cared for. They need more than our cheers. They need more than our sympathy. They need our blood.

As you read the war news this day, think of those wounded in the past 24 hours whose very lives depend upon the blood which someone, somewhere, has given. Think of the boy whose life might be saved by your blood.

But don't stop with the thought. Do something about it. Donate your blood right here in your own community on September 1st or 2nd. The Red Cross Blood Donor unit will be at the Harriman Hospital on both of these days—Wednesday, from 10:45 a. m. to four p. m.; and Thursday, from 12:45 p. m. to 5:15 p. m.
